Dear Tina2 Alvarado2,

I regret to inform you that your application for admission to the graduate program in Electrical and Computer Engineering (ECE) has been denied by the ECE Graduate Admissions Committee. This decision is due to our inability to provide you with adequate faculty advising or financial support and in no way implies a lack of academic excellence on your part.

Admission decisions are based on a composite of information which include academic standing of the program in which you have studied, educational preparation for your field, grades, test scores, the statement of purpose, letters of recommendation, relevant professional activities, and the admission committee's judgment of your potential for graduate studies and research. In your case, you were judged to be a good candidate for our graduate program. Unfortunately, at this time we could not identify an appropriate research advisor or a reliable source of funds that could support you during your graduate studies.

Please do not hesitate to contact me at mzefran@uic.edu if you would like to further discuss this admission decision.

We appreciate the interest you have shown in the Electrical and Computer Engineering Department at the University of Illinois at Chicago, and we wish you success in your career.

Sincerely,

Miloš Žefran
Director of Graduate Studies
